

Next Time, I'll Do it Differently!

Now that we have a better understanding of the verb “get” and its idiomatic forms, let’s do a short exercise to remind us how we can incorporate them in our everyday English usage.

Rewrite each of the following sentences by replacing the underlined words with the correct type of the “get” verb.

Example]

I don’t understand how to use this membership card.

→ I don’t get how to use this membership card.

1. Those apples have been sitting on the counter for days. Can you throw them away?

2. After sending Tom to the nurse’s office, Mr. Sims continued the lesson.

3. The boys become sleepy when they eat a big lunch.

4. Grace received a beautiful necklace from her dad on her birthday.

5. We’re out of milk, so we can buy some on the way home.

6. Do you have a good relationship with your siblings?
